

NIH CONFLICT OF INTEREST POLICY

At a recent meeting on Conflict of Interest (COI) sponsored by the NIH Office of Extramural Research, the NIH Office of Technology Transfer offered to place its internal Technology Transfer Conflict of Interest Policy on the OTT web site for other institutions to review.

The NIH policy is based on the U.S. Government employee COI policy but presents the policies in typical technology transfer situations. While the NIH policy is based on federal employee requirements, NIH recipient institutions are encouraged to review and consider the document as they develop their own internal COI policies.

Questions or comments on the policy or requests for technical assistance on other extramural technology transfer policy matters should be addressed to:
